A yearbook can only be a success when all the members of the staff work diligently and cooperatively. The staff this year worked very hard to produce their yearbook, headed by editor Mike Gray and assistant editor Jackie Walker. They not only spent several hours after school each week, but often gave up their study halls. Many times when the weather was bad or there were more exciting activities to attend, the members of the staff were tempted to skip a meeting. Then a little voice reminded them of their responsibility to the production of the yearbook. The staff worked hard all year, but without the two devoted Senior sponsors assisting them, the yearbook would never have been completed.

BUSINESS MANAGERS

The financial managers handled all of the money matters connected with the production of the yearbook. This was an enormous and time-consuming task. However, these two responsible students did an excellent job.

Compliments of AL'S GARAGE, Logansport

PHOTOGRAPHER

Vernon Schmaltz, the official photographer, took the action shots for the yearbook. Without his valuable assistance, the pictures would have been more difficult to obtain. He did an excellent job, as is evident throughout the book. The staff owes much gratitude to his devotion in making the yearbook interesting.

SOCIAL EDITORS

The staff members responsible for the written portion of the yearbook were Colleen Baker, Nancy Basham, and Pennie Dilts. These girls spent many hours after school composing the ideas expressed in the yearbook. Beverly Kraay and Janet Parish did an excellent job of co-ordinating the many social activities that Pioneer has. Their originality is clearly portrayed in the organization and dance pictures.

COPY EDITORS

CLASS EDITORS

The class editors of the yearbook were Connie Fry and Bill Jacoby. Their task was to place the underclassmen's pictures in the proper places. This job, which they performed very well, was difficult and tedious because of the miniature class pictures and the lack of identification.

Steve Winn and Fred Wells were the sports editors of the CONESTOGA. They did a fine job of organizing the competitive sports section. The action shots were difficult to obtain because of bad weather conditions. Thus, Steve and Fred spent many long hours to complete their part in the yearbook.

SPORTS EDITORS

ART EDITORS

Sherri East and Joyce Leedy were the art editors for the illustrated pages in the annual. They worked very diligently collecting ideas and drawing pictures to add interest to many pages. The talents of these girls have made it possible to carry out the theme of "Where the Action Is"

TYPISTS

Jody Scheetz, Chris Brandt, and Audrey Kesser were kept very busy typing and retyping the many words which make up the CONESTOGA. Without their skillful hands, the pages of this book would have been almost without meaning. These girls were responsible for the precise blocking and centering of all copy and identifying of pictures

ADVERTISING STAFF

The members of the advertising staff had a challenging task this year. They had to give up their free time to solicit advertising. Through their unrelenting efforts they outsold last year's class and set a new record.

YEARBOOK SALES

The students on the yearbook sales committee were very industrious salesmen. Their unfailing efforts were rewarded, for they broke the old record in the number of yearbooks sold.

FACULTY IN ACTION

School is an institution basically for learning. However, extra-curricular activities are an important part of our educational system. Teachers not only instruct us in the fundamental principles of reading, writing, and arithmetic but also teach us the importance of cooperation. The guidance counselors, play directors, and class sponsors help the students develop their personalities and, therefore, help shape their lives for the future world.

The Board of School Trustees has devoted many hours to formulating policies for the best interests of our school community. A great interest has been shown in the educational needs of the present and future generations of Pioneer School District. The present building program is evidence of providing the necessary facilities that will insure an adequate education for every boy and girl in this community. This has come about through the combined efforts of the school board, administration, faculty, and nonteaching personnel. None of this would have been possible without the interest, support, and enthusiasm shown by the mothers, fathers, grandparents, students, and citizenry of Pioneer Regional School Corporation. As Superintendent of Schools, I will strive to serve your best interest at all times.

Pioneer High School can take pride in the quality of the performances by many students, past and present. The school is well represented through academic and extra-curricular excellence. Improved physical facilities with special emphasis upon technical principles will enrich the entire structure of the educational program. The school, as it enters a new era, will grow in stature as modern methods are applied to basic principles already proven. However, it must always be remembered that unlimited progress without proper social adjustment will develop an improper balance in our society. The ultimate objective of the educational program is to develop a useful and worthy citizen who has confidence in himself and his country. To this end Pioneer High School has fulfilled its obligations.

ADMINISTRATION

If it were not for the efforts of Betty Hale, Pioneer's school secretary, the school would not run as smoothly as it does. Some of her duties are typing, making personal records of the students, keeping attendance records, listing the names on various honor rolls, writing admits for students, and answering the telephone. She is also a good friend to the students and often helps them with their various problems.

Mr. Aldridge attended Indiana University and Ball State University. He serves as Varsity Coach and also teaches bookkeeping, general business, and boys physical education.

Mrs. Alley has the dangerous job of teaching the chemistry and physics classes. She graduated from Ball State University.

Mrs. Baker teaches Freshmen and Sophomore English. She is a graduate of Purdue University.

Mr. Bowen, who is head of the math department, attended Ball State University. He is the Junior Class sponsor and teaches trigonometry, solid geometry, advanced algebra, and plane geometry.

SECRETARIES

Mrs. Betty Smith is one of the superintendents most valuable assistants. Without her aid Mr. Kelly's job would be even more difficult than it is. Through her diligent efforts the office operates smoothly and efficiently. Her smiling face and friendly personality always make her a welcome sight in the office.

Another one of Mr. Kelly's hardworking assistants is Mrs. March. Her typing and other duties also help make the superintendent's office an efficient place.

SENIORS A GO-GO

We Seniors of 1966, having achieved our goal of graduation, look back on the years we have spent working toward this point. Everyday as we see the underclassmen, we wonder if the imprint we have made upon them is a useful and lasting one. We hope to have guided them along the right paths for we realize that they, as we, have not finished, but really just begun.

The junior year of high school is often the most exciting and demanding one. The Juniors sell concessions and produce a play to help provide for the expenses of their next and final year of high school.

However, their most exciting and rewarding task is that of paying a final tribute to the Seniors by giving them a memorable prom. The rewards are well worth the effort.

Donny, Judy, and Ralph--"Whew"!

Webster's dictionary defines the word sophomore as "a wise fool." Having survived their Freshman year of high school, the Sophomores feel that now they are really a part of the school. However, they still have much to learn in their future years as upperclassmen. The big event of the year is, of course, the arrival of class rings. These rings are the true symbol of their class and will be one of their most prized possessions during their high school career.

Kenny and Don--Freshmen perform services

The first year of high school is one in which the "greenies" must make great adjustments. They not only have more and harder lessons, but also many new extracurricular activities. These activities help the student develop his personality and character. Thus they help establish a firm foundation for his future years at Pioneer.

ACTIVE ATHLETES

Whether it is a winning basket, a home run, or a hole-in-one, athletics means Action with a capital "A" at Pioneer. From quick observation winning seems to be the basic goal. However, at our school, sports of any kind are emphasized with the student's conduct, sportsmanship, and health as the essential pathway to proper adulthood. Certainly the major aim of the athletic department is to help young people face this complex world with courage, as well as with a belief in the integrity of his fellow man.

FROSH TEAM

Combining the three Junior High teams from Royal Center, Lucerne, and Noble Township into a winning combination was quite a job. However, these Freshman boys worked diligently toward the goal of success. Not only did they formulate a smooth running freshman squad, but they also placed three members on the junior varsity squad. If they develop their potential ability, Pioneer should look forward to many future victories

TEAM

Our B-team this year was led by a man who is very familiar at Pioneer, Mike Poehlein. He had a way with the boys that inspired them to do their best. These boys showed great promise and leadership which offered encouragement for the years ahead. Their fighting determination to win made them a hard opponent to defeat. Their quality of basketball was a fine display of high athletic ability and true sportsmanship.

This 1966 roster of the Pioneer Panther basketball team had many assets which made this an outstanding year. The desire, hard work, and courage that these young men exhibited was beyond asking. The attitude of "one for all and all for one" and the pride of carrying on the rich winning tradition enhanced our success. The environment created by the administration, faculty, student body, parents, and community also enabled these young men to accomplish many of their objectives.

The Girls Athletic Association promotes the ability to have fun and learn about sports simultaneously. The members participate in many sports, including bowling, basketball, volleyball, and roller skating. These sports help them learn the importance of teamwork and good sportsmanship. The girls also work very hard to accumulate points for various awards.

Hi-Y provides an outlet for boys in their spare time. They play Hi-Y basketball with other schools and also sponsor many worthwhile projects, such as selling Christmas trees and presenting a convocation. The club's big social event of the year is its spring dance.

TEENS IN ACTION

Students go to school to attain knowledge. With this knowledge they need to learn the art of wisdom. Their lessons are an important part of this developing process, but the extracurricular activities also play a very important role. The various clubs that are connected with the school give the students an opportunity to take part in other activities besides those associated directly with the classroom. Through these activities they learn self-control and co-operation. In this way they not only gain useful knowledge, but also acquire the wisdom necessary for living successfully with others in the world as it exists today.

The Sunshine Society is a worthwhile organization which adds cheer and kindness to the school and community. The girls give many parties at the State Hospital and are rewarded by a warm feeling which can only come from helping those less fortunate. Since the main goal of Sunshiners is to help others, they give baskets of food to the poor, collect money for the Riley Fund, and help support a Korean orphan. They earn money for their projects by selling candy. Other activities include Daddy Date Night, the Mother and Daughter Banquet, and the tea for the Ideal Ladies. The main event of the year is the Sweethearts' Ball which is held in February exclusively for Sunshiners and their special dates.

SOCIAL WHIRL

During the school year many social activities take place which help to vary the daily routine of the students. The plays, sock-hops, and formal dances not only provide enjoyable and worthwhile entertainment, but also furnish ways for the students to express themselves. The social activities help in the over-all training of the student's minds. In this way, the students' further their general education and more fully develop their personalities.

ONIONS IN THE STEW

Last year's Seniors drew a record crowd with their presentation of "Onions in the Stew." The play was a hilarious comedy about a mixed-up family who had just moved to a remote island in Puget Sound. The Seniors were excellent actors and actresses and were able to relay the story very well. However, all of the credit cannot be given to the students, for it was the director, Mrs. Patty, who supervised the entire project. She, as well as the entire cast, spent many hours making this play the great success that it was.

"Little Nell" was this year's Junior Play. This melodrama was exceptionally well portrayed by the cast and extra performers. The action included everything from a villain to a sweet farm girl. A pleasant addition to the play was an "Olio" presented between acts with several songs and dances by couples in "Gay Nineties" costumes. The play was directed and supervised by Jim Mentzer. All combined, this production was a huge success and was certainly enjoyed by the audience.

One of the brightest moments in the social calendar was the Junior-Senior Prom. The theme, "Isle of Golden Dreams", was accented by palm trees and sky blue water. The couples were greeted at the door by boys and girls clad in Hawaiian clothing. Even the music was soft and dreamy, putting everyone in a romantic mood. The Juniors worked very hard to present this dance to the Seniors as a way of saying farewell and wishing them goodluck in the future. For this reason the Prom was regarded as one of the shining points in a student's high school career.
